Forecast For East of England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Friday 08 Jan 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Rather cold and cloudy today, but mostly dry.

Today:
A cloudy and rather cold day, although it should stay mostly dry. However, the cloud should start to break up to give some clear spells by the evening, but with the chance of a few coastal showers. Light winds. Maximum temperature 4 deg C (39 deg F).

Tonight:
Any coastal showers easing to leave a dry night with clear skies across the region. A widespread frost and the risk of some icy patches forming in places. Minimum temperature -2 deg C (28 deg F).

Saturday:
After a cold and frosty start, it will be mostly fine and dry, with good spells of sunshine. Despite the sunshine and light winds, it will feel rather cold. Maximum temperature 4 deg C (39 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Turning cloudier on Sunday, after a cold and frosty start. Outbreaks of rain will slowly edge southwards on Monday. Windy and less cold. Drier, brighter and milder on Tuesday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.